Wustrow

Located on the Baltic Sea, this former military base is being re-planned as a residential and resort community for over 2000 persons.

Together with the Miami based firm of Duany, Plater-Zyberk, Architects and Town Planners, this development is conceived along the principles of "New Urbanism", the first such major project in Germany. The housing is planned within two garden-city communities, complete with shops, restaurants, hotel, beach club, post office, and sport facilities. A 27-hole golf course complete with a club house and hotel, as well as a new marina will complement the resort.

Planning 1996-2002.

Construction begin: 2003
